RECENT HAPPENINGS:

- First and foremost, a huge thank you for all the support and interest in the Oregon Military Museum!
- The Museum is getting a new name! The new Museum will be named in honor of Retired Brigadier General James B. Thayer, Sr., one of Oregon's finest military and civic leaders. General Thayer joined the U.S. Army in 1942, earning the Silver and Bronze Stars while serving in the European Theater during World War II. Thayer's anti-tank mine platoon discovered and liberated the Nazi concentration camp, Gunskirchen Lager, near Wels, Austria. For more details, please see the link below.
- Our sincere thanks to Mike Francis for his great article in the April 22nd Sunday Oregonian about General James Thayer and the Oregon Military Museum:
http://blog.oregonlive.com/oregonatwar/2012/04/united_by_a_historic_horror.html
- A new tentative soft opening date of May 20, 2013 has been established. This is the anniversary of the enactment of the 1887 Summers Act that established the Oregon National Guard.

- In preparation for HVAC renovations to begin in the North Wing, the majority of the 14,000 artifacts in the collection were safely moved to different areas in the building over the course of the last three weeks. After rearranging assets on the drill floor and in offices, and weather permitting, we relocated 1,000 uniforms, the art collection, and all of the pallets of artifacts in the main collections storage room. Then everything was covered in copious amounts of plastic to protect it from any dust and debris from the project. The contents of one last collections storage room remains to be cleared, and must wait for a space to become available. A debt of sincere gratitude goes to all the staff and volunteers who helped with this major accomplishment!!!

Above and at right, ↗ the art storage area before, during, and after being emptied. Below, ↓ the main collections storage room is emptied, with its contents moved to other locations. Even office space is being temporarily filled to house the uniform collection. ↓

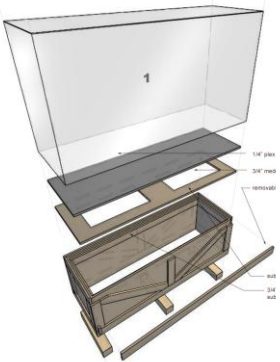

- This month, we interviewed four individuals and chose Portland State University junior, Lou Miller III as our new intern. Lou has been a volunteer at the Museum since his junior year of High School, and is a straight A student! He is a History Major, is interested in a museum career, and is proficient in German. Welcome Lou!
- Our sincere thanks to the State Shop folks for their ingenuity in coming up with a fix for our boiler when it stopped working again! They were able to cobble together the part that broke by using similar parts from other armories. This has allowed us to keep the Museum's heater working these last few months of Spring before the boiler is finally permanently decommissioned.
- Museum staff, ORNG historian Warren Aney, and HOF fundraiser Helen Gundlach met with a Tribal Elder to discuss ways we can partner with the nine Confederated Tribes of Oregon for the new exhibits.
- Assisted the Historical Outreach Foundation in preparing a National Endowment for the Humanities grant. Our special thanks to those folks who wrote the nicest support letters!

- Met with Air Guard's 142nd Explosive Ordnance Disposal team regarding the disposition of their collections of ordnance examples and manuals.
- The Museum's Liberty Truck, DUKW, M20 Armored Car, M151A2 Jeep, and a newly restored Japanese artillery piece were displayed at the grand opening of the new Camp Withycombe Post Exchange on April 13. ↘

- Ms. Daly was a presenter at the Collections Management workshop at the April 26-28 Northwest Archivists and Oregon Heritage Joint Conference.
- Last month, our website exceeded more than 1,000 individual computer visits, with close to 2,000 individual page visits. Visitors have come from every continent except Antarctica!
- ↘ Prepared and submitted a grant request to the Oregon Heritage Commission for a matching grant for exhibit furniture, as designed by Greg Garrett.

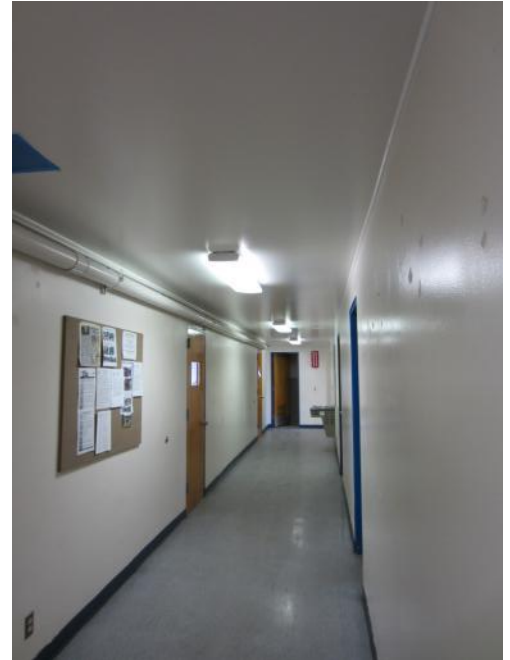

- Installed a new display case in the BG Owen Summers Building (Military Department Headquarters) featuring a M1896 Krag-Jorgenson rifle of the type used by the Second Oregon U.S. Volunteer Infantry during their Philippine Insurrection tour 1898-1899. Images of Summers and Second Oregon troops were also added to the case. →

HVAC PROJECT UPDATE:

- HVAC renovations are nearing completion in the south wing of the Museum. New ceilings are completed in the office hallway, as seen below.

- Below, the new support wall, ducting, electrical work, and drop ceiling are completed in the Classroom and look great.

- Below and at right, work continues in the main entry lobby with concrete drilling for ductwork, and in the Drill Floor Women's Restroom where roof framing is done between rain storms.

- Below, north wing hallway contents were moved to the old mess hall and covered with plastic. (You can see old water damage on the main support beam.) Below right, work begins for two new support walls and the addition of new massive roof support beams in the old rifle range.

- All museum assets and “stuff” will be moved at least one more time, when the old boiler system is able to be shut off and demolished, and duct balancing takes place!
